

NCR Remains Undisputed Leader in Self-Checkout and Takes Market Share in Electronic Point of Sale Technology

June 20, 2018 at 8:01 AM EDT

ATLANTA--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Jun. 20, 2018-- NCR Corporation (NYSE: NCR), a global leader in omni-channel solutions, continues to be the undisputed leader in the global self-checkout market, according to research and consulting firm RBR. Furthermore, the "Global EPOS and Self-Checkout 2018 study" revealed that NCR grew faster than the market in EPOS shipments, confirming its leading position in North America for the 4th consecutive year.

In 2018, NCR celebrates the 20th anniversary of its first self-checkout installation. Since then, NCR has become the global leader in self-checkout, with more than 250,000 deployments across 42 countries helping retailers to remove friction from the checkout process and deliver exceptional experiences. RBR expects that self-checkout installations will reach 445,000 units by 2023.

"Retailers are looking towards solutions to reinvent the consumer experience inside the store," said Tom Chittenden, vice president and general manager, Retail Solutions at NCR Corporation. "We continue to innovate and evolve our store transformation solutions that enable the next generation of consumer experiences and productivity gains and help turn transactions into interactions that matter."

The study is based on in-depth primary research and provides detailed, country-by-country data and commentary for programmable EPOS and self-checkout hardware in 53 markets.
